

David Geffen
School of Medicine

Chief, Division of Clinical Genetics and Genomics
Department of Human Genetics and Institute for Precision Health
David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA
UCLA Health and Mattel Children's Hospital

The Department of Human Genetics and the Institute for Precision Health at the David Geffen School of Medicine seeks a Medical Geneticist to build and direct a new division of Clinical Genetics and Genomics. The development of this division represents a major new direction in the school of medicine and health system and requires substantial leadership qualities and vision. The director will be responsible for developing and integrating clinical genomic medicine and precision health efforts across a wide variety of medical disciplines, from pediatrics to adults. The position is a full-time tenured position at the associate or full professor rank, commensurate with experience. M.D. or equivalent degree is required. Applicants must be licensed or license-eligible to practice medicine in California, at the time of appointment.

Candidates must have an outstanding record of leadership skills as well as an established, independent clinical and/or laboratory research program and participate in the teaching and clinical activities of the division. Rich opportunities are available for cooperative research with UCLA physician-scientists and both basic and clinical scientists in many disciplines. Responsibilities will include working to expand and further strengthen genomic medicine in the clinical and inpatient clinics across multiple hospitals and telemedicine activities. The candidate will also support educational and research activities that relate to the division, such as the Undiagnosed Disease Network, Intercampus Medical Genetics Training Program, and the Genetic Counseling Training Program.

Please submit a curriculum vitae, a letter of interest and the names of 3-5 references care of Anne Carson through the UC Recruit portal: <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03321>. Confidential review of applications, nominations and expressions of interest will begin after the deadline of November 15, 2017. Compensation for the position is competitive. Individuals with a history of and commitment to mentoring trainees from underrepresented minorities are encouraged to apply.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination and Affirmative Action Policy (<http://policy.ucop.edu/doc/4000376/NondiscrimAffirmAct>).